SCHOOL PRESIDENT AT ANNUAL BREAKFAST

At the annual communion breakfast of the Holy Name society last Sunday morning, the president of the new Augustinian College to be located in the Andovers. Very Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., announced that applications for the college are now being taken as the opening date has been moved up to September of this year. Ten priests selected from Villanova and other Augustinian schools will make up the faculty for the opening year when it is expected that liberal arts subjects and business administration will be taught to 200 students.

In speaking of the need to enlarge the present site, Fr. McQuade told the group that it would be advantageous to have the town zoning laws amended to have the land placed in an educational district, rather than a residential district. Negotiations are now being made to buy more land south of Peters street and in the area west of High street and north of Haverhill street.

He described the aims of the school which will be open to everyone, and said that: "We must instill ideals into all the youth of the country if the country is to prosper."

Retiring president John F. O'Connell introduced the speaker and presided at the business meeting when an election of officers was held. Augustine P. Sullivan was elected president and Augustine L. Delaney, vice president. Donald M. Surette, will be secretary, and J. Harold Eastwood, treasurer.

SUMNER WELLES TO LECTURE HERE

Sumner Welles, former Undersecretary of State, who is widely recognized as an authority on international affairs, will appear at Phillips Academy, Friday, May 16, as lecturer on the Alfred E. Stearns Foundation.

Famed for his work in Latin-American relations, Mr. Welles is author of the book "Where Are We Heading," an analysis of the foreign policy of the United States.

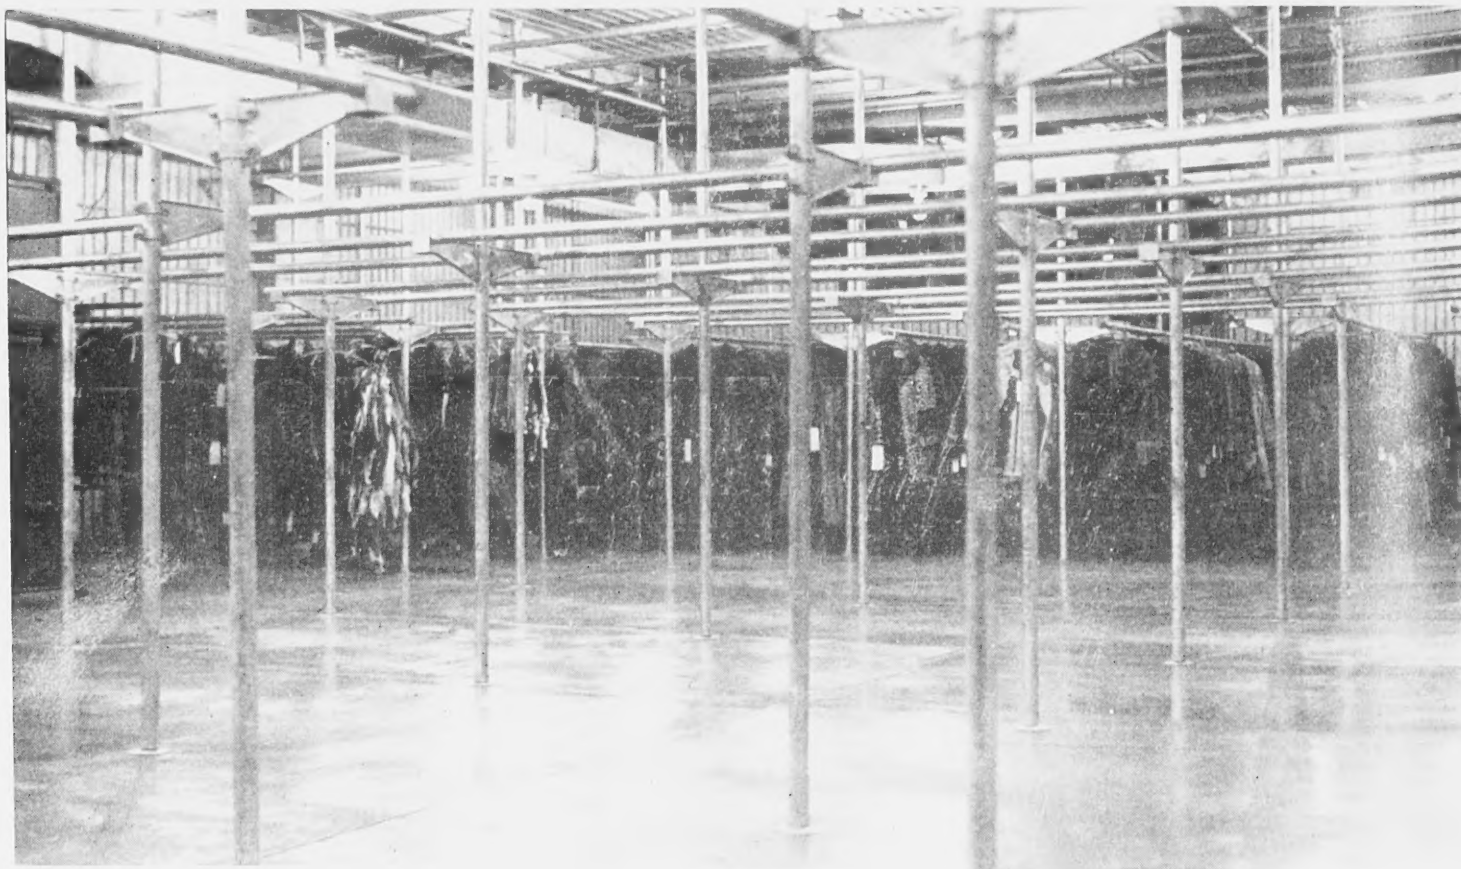

Rugby Headmaster Weekend Guest

Phillips Academy will be host this week-end to a distinguished educator from across the sea when Percy Hugh Lyon, Headmaster of Rugby, will be the guest of Andover's Headmaster Claude M. Fuess.

Mr. Lyon, who has been headmaster of Rugby since 1931, was educated at Rugby and Oriel College, Oxford. He served with distinction in World War I, was wounded and a prisoner-of-war in Germany.

As headmaster of one of England's greatest schools, he has an outstanding career as an author and teacher.

Praise-Worthy Precedent

Selectman Roy E. Hardy's announcement this week that he would not be a candidate for re-election next March if a suitable candidate comes forth in the meantime is a very commendable step. In making the announcement, Mr. Hardy may well have helped start a precedent under which town officials after four terms in office would retire to allow other men to take a hand in running the town government.

The precedent is a good one, for too often when a person is in office too long, he adopts an attitude of superiority toward the general public, an attitude that "the king can do no wrong." In other cases, some long-time office holders lose their initial interest in the running of their department and are just carried on by the other members as so much dead wood.

In Mr. Hardy's case, neither criticism is applicable. He has done a truly excellent job as titular head of the town government and his interest is greater rather than less than it was in the beginning. Many hours of his week are spent on town problems. He has been a very worthy representative of the town, in both public and official gatherings, here and elsewhere.

It will perhaps be difficult to fulfill the terms of Mr. Hardy's proviso. It is not always easy to find a suitable candidate to run for office in Andover, and it certainly won't be easy to get one who can do anywhere near as good a job as Mr. Hardy has done. However, he has given ample time by making his announcement in May, ten months ahead of the annual election. By December there certainly should be one or two very good candidates ready to enter the field, and there should be citizens' committees eager to do some work to see that the best candidate is elected.

While the district wrangles, educators debate and the school committee stands firm on its ultimatum, fifteen pupils or no North school, the present school population studies, plays and has its picture taken, happily unaware of the verbal tug-o-war being fought around them.

They are too young to weigh the educational advantages and disadvantages of a small country school, they haven't yet tested the comforts or discomforts of traveling on a school bus,, the prospects of having lots of playmates instead of a limited number are intriguing to some, frightening to others. They are normal, healthy, fun-loving American children caught in the cross-fire of free speaking people in an era when sovereignty seems precious to the individual parts, a barrier to the united whole.

They've heard of growing pains but they don't know that they attack a district, a town, a nation. They're too busy now with the moment and thoughts of vacation. Next fall? Why, they'll take care of that when it arrives.

THE MUSEUM GOES TO THE MILLS

Addison Art gallery is making a unique attempt to pack up the mountain and deliver it, in part, to Mohammed. There have already been many visitors to the gallery to view the Textile Panorama on exhibit until June 15 but Bartlett Hayes, Jr. is not taking any chances that people in the area interested in the textile field missing the show. Sample exhibits of old-time fabrics, lent by the Museum of Art, Providence, R. I., have been installed in each of the nearby mills, Arlington, Marlands, Pacific and Textron, whose present-day products are represented in the master display.

Each of these sample exhibits, consisting of a six-fold, free-standing screen containing a title and forward on the first panel and a single textile mounted on each of the succeeding five panels, has been placed in some central location at each mill where a majority of employees pass by or congregate. Labels point out variations in pattern, weave and historical background and represented are the arts of Persia, India, Peru, Java and countries of south Europe during the medieval, Renaissance and Baroque periods.

The sample exhibit is an appetizer for the main course served at the gallery and by this on-the-job stimulation of interest, it is hoped that more and more textile workers will develop an interest and understanding of the broad aspects of their trade. An experiment in museum procedure, it is a follow through of the idea that art education is most effective when brought within the range of everyday experience. One of the functions of the art museum, as a cultural center, is to develop a sensitive feeling toward the general appearance of the general community, its houses, landscape, clothes and the household articles of daily use. The mill exhibits, held in conjunction with Textile Panorama, represent an immediate effort to put this philosophy into practice.

Garden Club

The North Andover Garden Club will open to the public eleven gardens and eight houses on Saturday, May 24th, from 2:00 until 5:30 P.M.

The Male Choir's Going To New Haven

It's been five years since the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs Inc. has had a concert in which the Andover Male choir has competed but in past years they have knocked off grand prizes and group prizes with harmony and ease. This year they will try again and Saturday morning at 7:00 a.m. while most of the town is catching up on sleep, the members of the Male choir will be catching a specially chartered bus from the square to New Haven Conn.

The contest at 1:30 will be followed by rehearsal at 4:00, a buffet supper at 6:00 and a concert at 8:30 and sometime, in the small hours, the bus will travel back to Andover.

Selections which the Male choir will sing, without accompaniment, for the informal marking by three competent judges will be "Hear My Prayer" by Kopylov and "Evening Pastoral" by Shaw. J. Everett Collins will, of course, be the conductor.

Several Andover Male Choir auxiliary members and townspeople are planning to make the trip and to remain for the evening concert which will feature the New Haven Symphony orchestra with Dr. Richard Donovan, conductor, leading the entire program. The soloist will be Alexander Kipnis, Metropolitan Basso, who will sing Arias from Boris Goudnov.

The choir is now composed of 27 singers including the president, Carl Wetterberg, and the nucleus is made up of voices which assisted in winning the Grand prize in 1936 and again in 1939 and in claiming the 1st prize in the group seven times.

Just for practice the group sang at the Hotel Statler this week and received their usual ovation, a good sign that they're still in there pitching—and in the right key.

Choral Music

This Saturday evening, May 17, at 7 o'clock in Cochran chapel, the combined Glee clubs of the Walnut Hill school and of Phillips academy will present a programme of choral music, the conducting feature of which will be the great Easter Cantata of Bach, on the hymn of Martin Luther, "Christ lay in death's dark prison." The Cantata is one of the most monumental works of the master, full of power and fire! The public is cordially invited.

Reunion Banquet

Tickets for the Punchard Alumni banquet to be held at Memorial cafeteria on June 14 are now on sale at $2.00 which includes a steak dinner, music, entertainment and a pleasant opportunity to get together with your former classmates.

Reservations may be made through your class president, the banquet committee which includes Misses Besse Dantos, Ruth Anderson, Betty Buchan and Messrs. James Dorerty, Irving Whitecomb and David McDonald. They may also be purchased at the Townsman office.

Open House

The Andover Historical Society, 97 Main Street, invites its members and friends to an Open House from three to five o'clock on the afternoon of May 27. There will be Maypole dancing on the lawn; an exhibition of dolls; and for the junior members of the audience, Miss Lane of the Memorial Hall Library will tell stories promptly at four o'clock. Guests will have an opportunity to roam about the house and barn with competent guides to explain all historical items from firearms to hats.

In case of rain the event will take place without fail on the following day, May 28. The public is cordially invited to share the charms of this interesting old house. Simple refreshments will be served.

Barn Dance

Whoever you are, you'll find something to suit you at the Nunez barn on Saturday night, when things get under way at 8 o'clock. There will be square dancing for those who enjoy it, but if you don't know how to "dig for the oyster, dive for the clam" there will be plain dancing as well. If you don't feel like dancing at all, there will be bridge playing going on in the house. Or maybe you enjoy all three!

Anyway, the affair is for the benefit of the Smith College 75th Anniversary Fund.

If you haven't already purchased your ticket from Mrs. Robert Sides, Hidden Field, don't worry—they'll be sold at the door and will entitle you to a full evening of FUN!

Concert for Lions

The All-Girl Glee club of Texton's Manchester N. H. plant will be featured in a concert for a joint meeting of the Manchester and Attleboro Lion's club at the Andover Country club on May 20. The thirty-voice choir will present a ten song program of semi-classical music. The informal affair will begin with dinner at 6:30. The concert is scheduled for 10:25.

Devil's Disciple

George B. Shaw's "Devil's Disciple" will be presented by the Phillips academy dramatic club on May 23 and 24 in George Washington hall. The curtain will go up at 8:30 both nights and tickets at 72c and 90c may be purchased at the door.

Puppet Show

There will be two performances of the puppet show to be held at the November club on Saturday afternoon, one at 2:00 and one at 3:30, when the Mary Dean puppets will perform a varied and fascinating program called "Circus and Variety." The show will be sponsored by the Merrimack Valley Wheaton club.

Solo Show

There is only a limited time to visit the L. V. Goriensky solo show being presented at Stuart gallery, 455 Stuart street, Boston, as it will close Saturday. The gala exhibit has attracted much attention and the praise of the critics has been outstanding.

The Christian Science Monitor's comments were:

"Mr. Goriensky's pictures make a compelling display—The pictures treat themes ranging from the circus to the Apocalypse, and including dancers, victory celebrations, masked balls, portents and allegories. He shuttles between a tangible and a fanciful world; he paints objects, thoughts, allegories and symbols—He sets himself fearlessly and often expressively to an enormous task—Mr. Goriensky presents his material with the eloquence and breath it demands."

The Boston Sunday Herald says: "Intellect and imagination have soared in this fascinating expressionist show at the Stuart Gallery—The artist has a daring palette but a fine sense of harmony—We had seen his work before but never had suspected its great range and force. This is one of the most unusual shows, not perhaps to everyone's taste, though it is certainly varied enough, that the Stuart has ever arranged.

The show will go to one of the most important galleries of East 57th street, New York City, very soon.

AT THE LIBRARY . . .

Hear the Man With 100 Voices

On Thursday afternoon, May 22, there is to be a treat for the children and young people of Andover. Mr. John T. Cronan, "the man with one hundred voices" will be in different schools, and at the Memorial Hall Library to give another of his performances that delighted the young people when he came to Andover last year. He will be the guest at the Andover Junior High School Assembly at 1:15 in the afternoon, and from there will visit Bradlee School for an hour's program, opening at 2:15. At 3:45 he will be back at the Memorial Hall Library for a story hour for children in the first six grades. All are welcome, and may attend without tickets.

Many people will remember reading with pleasure the article by T. E. Murphy which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post on July 13, 1946. It was entitled "Man With 100 Voices," and the illustrations alone are a powerful inducement to see the master story-teller in action.

Painting Class

Several trays and boxes as well as small furniture decorated by the members of the Tray-Painting Class are still on exhibit at the Library. There have been many complimentary comments by those who stopped to look at the work, and no small degree of surprise registered at the fine work done in so short a time. The display, a credit to the teacher of the course, Mrs. Geoffrey Glendinning, will remain on view for a short while longer.

MILONE—AUDESSE

At a wedding in the Sacred Heart church recently, Miss Theresa Audesse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derel Audesse of 46 Beacon street, became the bride of Joseph Milone, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Milone of 276 Elm street, Lawrence. Rev. Regis Sirois, S.M., pastor, officiated.

The bride was gowned in white satin and chiffon with a veil of illusion caught in a coronet. She carried white roses with an orchid center. Mrs. Lillian Bedard was her matron of honor, and she was gowned in aqua net, with matching headdress, and carried red roses.

Helen Ouelette and Katherine Alferia were the bridesmaids, and their gowns were of pink taffeta and chiffon with matching head-dresses. Their bouquets were of pink roses.

The flower girls were Doris Audesse and Yvonne Brochue, who wore gowns of yellow net. Gerald Bedard was best man, and John Milone and John J. Milone were ushers.

The couple left on a trip to New York following the reception, and upon their return will reside at 345 Elm street, Lawrence.

JUKNAVORIAN—LOOSIGIAN

At a pretty Spring wedding in St. Vartanantz Armenian Apostolic church in Lowell recently, Miss Lucy Loosigian, daughter of Melkon Loosigian of 2 Blanchard street, became the bride of Azad Juknavorian, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Juknavorian of 119 Chapel street, Lowell. Rev. Father Semerjian officiated.

The bride's gown was of duchess satin fashioned with a fitted bodice, bouffant skirt and full court train. Her finger-tip veil of imported English illusion was attached to a coronet of pearlized orange blossoms and seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white bridal roses.

Mrs. Julia Moushigian was the matron of honor, and other attendants were Vee Loosigian of Boston, Sophie Ann Loosigian of Andover, Rose Amboian of Lowell, Margaret Tateosian of Andover as bridesmaids, and Joan and Lucille Loosigian as flower girls. The bridesmaids combined powder blue and pink in their identical gowns of ruffled marquisette, and the maid of honor wore a harmonizing gown of yellow. They carried similar bouquets of carnations.

Spring Weddings

Saunders Studio
Miss Marjorie Fessenden, daughter of Mrs. William F. Fessenden of Park street, became the bride of George Porter Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen C. Wilson of Tewksbury, at a candlelight service in the South church, April 19. The couple are pictured above, cutting their wedding cake at the reception that followed in the church vestry.

MILLER—LAWSON

Miss Natalie M. Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lawson of Maple avenue, and George R. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Miller of 127 Newton street, Lawrence, were recently wed at a 7 o'clock ceremony in St. Patrick's church. Rev. Michael J. Barry officiated.

Corporal Ramie L. Conner was best man. Pfc. Harry Fontain and Pfc. John Whittiker were the ushers.

Bridal Shower

On Sunday afternoon, Mrs. James Dailey of 41 Summer street entertained her niece-to-be, Miss Mary Hartman of Shawsheen Village, in honor of her approaching marriage to Irvin Hilton of Lowell street. Miss Hartman cut a "kitchen pie" under a pink shower umbrella in the living room. Instead of the usual cherries or apples, the pie contained all manner of kitchen gadgets: food chopper, strainers, cutters, knives, potato masher, clothespins and other kitchen wares which had been snugly packed in a linen-lined clothesbasket. When the "pie" had disappeared, a beautiful white chenille spread, embroidered in pastel colors, was discovered under the "crust."

Another entertaining feature of the afternoon was the putting together of an original poem describing the romance of Miss Hartman and Mr. Hilton. The matching lines caused much hilarity before they finally spelled out the names of the young couple.

The home was prettily decorated in pink and white. Delicious refreshments carried out the same color scheme. Mrs. Chandler Bodwell, Mrs. Stephen A. Lovejoy and Mrs. Kenneth Hilton assisted the hostess. Guests were present from North Andover, Winchester, Lowell, Ipswich and Andover.

Among those who contributed to the happiness of the occasion were: Mrs. Susan Hilton, grandmother of the bridegroom-elect, Mrs. Bernice Danforth, Miss Virginia Danforth, Mrs. Carroll Hilton, Mrs. Bruce Prendergast, all of Winchester, Mrs. Chandler Bodwell, Mrs. S. A. Lovejoy, Mrs. Joseph Lovejoy, Mrs. Kenneth Hilton, Miss Marlene Lovejoy, Miss Marilyn Lovejoy, Mrs. Ruth Lundgren, Mrs. Donald Lundgren, Mrs. Chester Harnden, Mrs. Lee Shuler, Mrs. James Dailey, Sr., Mrs. John Rasmussen, Mrs. James Dailey, Miss Annie Wright, Mrs. Anna Humphries, Mrs. Roy Hood, Mrs. William Hohlfelder, Mrs. G. SPEAKERS TO DESCRIBE HOSPITAL PROGRAM OF DISTRICT NURSING

Representatives from the Lawrence General hospital will describe the program by which the hospital provides district nursing service for communities in the area before an open meeting of the Andover District Nurse's association, to be held in the lower court room on Tuesday night at 8:00. The speakers will be Mrs. A. B. Sutherland, president of the Lawrence General hospital; Miss Beatrice Barnes, superintendent; Miss Emma Brown, head of district nursing.

At a recent meeting of the association officers and committee chairman, a consideration of three possible plans for continuing the support of the district nurse brought out as many diverging opinions and it was decided that further investigation of each plan should be made, their advantages presented and discussed at meetings that would be open to the public.

Since the district nursing program is so vital to the health of the community, it is important that it should be carried on in the most complete and efficient manner possible in order to provide maximum service. The local chapter of the Red Cross has carried on the program since its inception and will continue to do so until a suitable arrangement is developed.

The Service of Dedication will open with a Prelude by the son, Malcolm Lundgren, who will play some of his father's favorite classical numbers and church hymns. The Dedication Sermon will be brought by Rev. E. Elton Smith, the former pastor of the Baptist Church, now pastor of the First Baptist Church, in Oregon.

At the conclusion of the Dedication Sermon, the Pastor, Rev. Wendell L. Bailey, will lead the congregation in a Litany of Dedication and the Dedication Prayer. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

TOWN TOPICS...

Maud Sainsbury

Who remembers Maud Sainsbury? The immigration and nat- uralization bureau of the Depart- ment of Justice recently became a little worried about Mrs. Sains- bury, worried enough to send a letter to Chairman Roy E. Hardy, asking if he knew where she had disappeared to. They were par- ticularly afraid that she might have gone to Canada or Mexico.

Mrs. Sainsbury arrived by air in New York near the end of May last year, having permission for an eight-day temporary visit. The Department of Justice had no rec- ord of her ever having left the country. Mr. Hardy, however, has informed the Department that he is pretty certain that Mrs. Sains- bury, the mayress of Andover, England, did leave the country, because he has received letters from her, postmarked Andover, England, and on the Fourth of July last year she telephoned her best Independence Day greetings from England.

Bookies

A bill before the General Court for the licensing of bookies has received mixed reactions in An- dover. Chief of Police Dane has stated that the law would make legal something which is, in his opinion, bound to happen anyway, and which it is almost impossible to track down and stop. Other town officials, including Chairman Hardy, feel that legalizing the practice of taking bets is making legally right something which is morally wrong.

There has been some book- making in Andover, with a good part of it possibly in some of the local mills. The police did appre- hend one man taking bets in one of the mill yards, and he was fined as a result. One local businessman suspected of taking bets has been given a stern warning by the police.

Chairman Hardy Willing To Retire

Chairman Roy E. Hardy of the Board of Selectmen told the Towns- man this week that he is quite willing to retire as of next March, provided a suitable candidate for the position comes forth.

Mr. Hardy will have finished at that time four terms on the Board of Selectmen, he having defeated Dr. J. J. Daly in 1936. He has been chairman for the greater part of that period.

Red Cross Vacates

The local Red Cross chapter at a meeting Sunday evening appoint- ed a committee to look for new quarters in response to the Select- men's request that the Shaw prop- erty be vacated for Veteran's hous- ing purposes. Douglas Byers is chairman of the committee. The local Amvet Post, which has quar- ters in the upper part of the Town House, has offered the use of these rooms until such time as the Red Cross can become permanently located.

The Selectmen have been given a figure by a contractor for con- verting the Shaw Property into five apartments. The contractor estimated about $15,000, which is pretty much out of the question, since the town only paid $11,000 for the property.

Sand and Gravel

The Selectmen were informed this week by the Secretary to the Chief Justice of the Superior Court that Attorney Louis O'Keefe would file his report of the Essex Sand & Gravel case by June 1st. The Selectmen were advised if this report were not filed at this time, to notify the Chief Justice again.

Traffic Lights

No answer has been received by the selectmen as yet to the letter written to Mr. Copell of the De- partment of Public Works, con- cerning the operation of the traffic lights near Phillips academy. The letter written by the selectmen offered the following complaints about the lights:

From the testimony offered at an informal hearing, the universal testimony was that the yellow or amber light supposed to operate between the flashing green and the red and yellow does not operate at all, apparently because of a me- chanical defect. There also seems to be considerable doubt whether or not four seconds is a sufficient time for the operation of this yellow light.

A second very general objection is that upon entering Main street from School street, near Chapel avenue, the driver can see both flashing red at Chapel avenue, and the flashing green on Main street, and he is doubtful which signal to obey. Perhaps a longer hood on the Chapel avenue light, and a slight change in direction would eliminate this trouble.

NAVAL RESERVE MEETING HERE

A large group of townspeople representing various organizations were present at the Naval Reserve meeting held Monday night in the Legion hall. Honorary Chairman Roy E. Hardy and Active Chair- man Harold W. Wennik were among the speakers, with Donald D. Dunn explaining the advantages of the Naval Reserve and how it functions.

Following the meeting, moving pictures were shown of the naval battles in Japan from the begin- ning of the war to the explosion of the atomic bomb.

Every year from 1896 to 1946 is chronicled in the Townsman Historical Book as carefully as 1916, as shown above. In addition, there is a historical resume, a critical analysis of the changes in our way of life and of the factors which influence or retard the progress of a town like Andover.

And Now It HAS Arrived:

A freight car arrived in Boston this week bearing two and one-half tons of the best news we've had in a long time. It contained the ivory coated paper which we have needed for months to finish the printing of our Andover historical book.

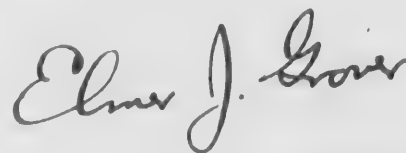

This paper was ordered last August when we found that the demand for books was larger than we had anticipated, and when we also decided to make it a much more complete book than our first plans had called for. About 180 pages had been printed, with seventy more to go, but with the paper market being far worse than it was at any time during the war years, it was absolutely impossible to procure this supply of special paper any earlier, although we had four paper houses working on the problem.

The intervening time has given us a greater opportunity to provide a much better book, and we confidently feel that it is one of the best historical books, even the best, ever published for any town like Andover. We have gone through some 20,000 pages of old Townsmans to provide a historical survey of the last fifty years, a period replete with many changes in a small town's way of life. It provides a step by step story of the arrival of the new inventions, the telephone, the automobile, the radio, and many others. It tells of the economic ups and downs of the past five decades. It tells of the growth of Shawsheen and the transformation of Phillips Academy. It tells of the three wars that have taken place in that half century.

There are hundreds of pictures, new and old, illustrating the history of every school, of every club, and of most of the industries and business houses in the town. It even contains a pictorial weather history. But it's not all old-time material, for there are many pictures telling of the Andover of today.

We no longer dare hazard a guess as to the exact date, but it will go through our shop just as fast as is humanly possible. The last obstacle has been surmounted.

To the many who have subscribed to the book and who have supported it in other ways, we express our sincere appreciation for their patience and understanding. We are confident that when they see the finished product, they will feel that their cooperation was very much worthwhile.

Something New

A new feature has been added to the Philliplian as a result of a visit to the Abbot birthday bazaar paid by members of the staff. The only "feminine reporter on the Philliplian" will now digest Abbot news and ideas—unless the readers object.

Prom

Last Friday's Junior prom was one of the best according to the lucky attenders who twirled lovely ladies to the music of Alan Curtis' orchestra. Borden Gym had been transformed into a civilized jungle of overgrown bow ties, champagne bottles, glasses, musical notes, piano keys and such making a fitting background to the melodies of the new Upper 8-1 octet led by Bill Miner.

Girls' Assembly

The girls of the eighth and ninth grades were the guests of the High school at an assembly presented by the Guidance, Health, and Physical Education Departments. There were several women guest speakers who talked about positions for girls. First to speak was Miss Louise Hord, supervisor of Dental Hygiene at Forsythe Dental Clinic, who told of the duties of a dental nurse. Miss Mary Carpenter, dean at Bouvé, Boston School of Physical Education, was the second speaker, and she spoke of the opportunities for physical education and therapy teachers. Miss Agnes Tobin, educational director of nurses in the Lawrence General hospital, was the next guest speaker. She explained the nursing career and the specialties in this field. The last talk was given by Miss Rita Gourville, dean of nurses at Lowell Teachers' college. Her topic was on teaching in general.

Assembly

Room 7 presented the assembly program last Friday, May 9, when all members of the home room took part. The main feature of the program was a one-act play entitled, "Buddy Answers an Ad." There were several singing and dancing numbers also, which proved to be an added attraction, since they were acted out.

Those taking part in the play were: Joe Wennik, Shirley McCabe, Joan Godfrey, Shirley Nicoll, Clifford Lawrence, Alice Emmert, Everett MacAskill and Philip Dole. Dance specialties included Shirley and Constance Bailey, Janet Swenson.

Song specialties were sung by Peter Dunlop, Phyllis Johnson, Virginia McCullough, Robert Hutton, Graig Anderson. The announcer was Jay Guertin.

Others participating were James Beirne, Michael Boloian, Peter Goff, Carole Wright, Constance Midolo.

Spelling Match

The annual Lincoln spelling match for the Andover public school students was held on Friday night, May 9, in the Memorial auditorium. The Junior high participants did an excellent job. Winners from our school in the preliminaries were: Seventh Grade—first, Edward Dean; second, Christine Baduvakis; Eighth Grade—first, Barbara Gibson; second, Charles Koza; Ninth Grade—first, Beatrice Bourassa; second, Ethel Campbell.

Winners from the Junior High school in the finals of the spelling match were Beatrice Bourassa of the ninth grade, who received ten dollars as first prize, and Christine Baduvakis of the seventh grade, who received six dollars as second prize.

Dance Programs

Last Monday the Prom committee distributed dance cards to those ninth grade students planning to attend the annual ninth grade dance in the school gymnasium. They were printed in our Shop by the Dance committee, who did a very fine piece of work.

Football or Baseball?

Does the score 29-3 sound like a baseball score? Many people hearing the score thought that it might be a football game played out of season. But, no, it was a baseball game, in which the Junior High nine (should it be told?) white-washed a weak North Reading baseball team. The three runs scored by the latter were due to several reasons, mainly because there were only three practices. Therefore, the few errors that occurred are to be expected for the opener of the season. Several players were "beamed" by the ball, and a more serious mishap occurred when a North Reading player sprained his ankle while sliding into second base.

The biggest excitement came when several of the Dimlich men really slammed the ball, to send it away for a double or triple.

Jack McCarthy, son of Frank McCarthy, a star pitcher for Punchard during 1913, pitched good ball in the first five innings, and then was relieved by "Mike" Mauceri for the rest of the game.

'POST' WRITERS SWAP THOUGHTS WITH HEADMASTER HUGH LYON

Henry and Catherine Pringle Share Admiration
Of Andover Democracy With Rugby Educator

(Reprinted by Courtesy of The Phillipian)

A most interesting crossfire of questions and comments resulted last Sunday after Chapel when Percy Hugh Lyon, Headmaster of England's Rugby School, got together at Dr. Fuess's house with Henry and Catherine Pringle, noted free-lance writers researching for a Saturday Evening Post article about Phillips Academy. Andover was a new experience for both the Pringles and Mr. Lyon, but all agreed in their admiration of the "spaciousness" and practical "democracy" which they had seen.

Mr. Lyon, on his first visit to America, came directly to Andover Saturday after his American Airlines trip across the ocean, and he and his long-standing friend, Dr. Fuess, left Sunday night to speak at a conference on secondary school education held at Princeton as a part of its Bicentennial program. A beautiful speaker in thought and expression, Mr. Lyon delivered an almost extemporaneous sermon on Sunday.

The Pringles, whose past efforts include a Pulitzer Prize-winning biography of Theodore Roosevelt, have been writing for the Saturday Evening Post since 1943. Their present project evolved from an editor's curiosity about literature concerning the broad scholarship opportunities at Phillips. The final result of this bit of curiosity will be the Pringles' photograph-accompanied "Portrait of a School," which will appear some time in the Fall.

In his brief stay in Andover, Mr. Lyon of Rugby revealed that he was impressed by both the spaciousness and inspiring surroundings, which gave him a feeling, as did Eton, of its being "dedicated to education." He cited Rugby as a contrast, telling of the ten styles of architecture huddled amidst the town in which Rugby grew up from a grammar school, as did so many other British schools. While on contrasts, Mr. Lyon remarked upon the differing ideas of school spirit and inter-class distribution. Whereas the Andover emphasis is on outside competition, Rugby pays more attention to its inter-House sports. This is mostly due to the English system of dormitory distribution, where each dorm contains a cross-section from each class, a prep working up through the five forms while remaining in his original house.

It was interesting to note that when Mr. Pringle was discussing the scholarship aid which causes Andover to stand out among many so-called "rich-boy schools," Mr. Lyon disclosed that over one quarter of his school does not pay full fee. The Pringles, who in the last week have been absorbing as much as possible of the past and present of Andover from unobtrusive visits and conversations in classrooms, offices, meetings, and about the campus, expressed their admiration for the "democracy with a small d" which they saw in the scholarships, the broad range of admissions, and the size of the school.

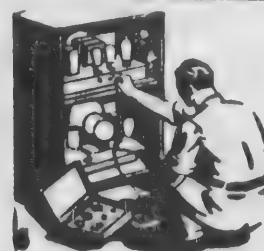

When the subject of student exchanges came up, Mr. Lyon asserted his highest regard for such arrangements. He declared that the Kent boy now at Rugby was the finest type of good-will ambassador, being fondly liked by the whole school, and he told of a Rugby boy who was to attend Lawrenceville next year. After an unsuccessful bout with an apparently fluidless cigarette lighter, Dr. Fuess joined in the conversation then to agree with the Rugby educator on the similarity of purpose of their two schools. Mr. Lyon's quotation from Dr. Arnold about Christian men was found not unlike the first passages of the Andover constitution, which the Doctor recited with gleams of satisfaction. It was also solemnly agreed that the present attitude of the schools toward the fair sex was far healthier than in the repressed past.

In answering the inevitable query for his opinion of America, the quick-witted, alert Englishman summed up his fleeting impression in the one envious word, "space," expressing in one syllable the difference between England's venerable, crowded land and America's vast, fresh nation.

RAPID PROGRESS

He — How're you getting along with your driving?

She — Wonderful. Yesterday I went sixty miles an hour and tomorrow I'm going to try opening my eyes when I pass another car.

Reorganization of B.P.W. Man-Power Expected Soon

The possibility of a complete reorganization of the man-power in the Department of Public works became a definite probability this past week when the Board authorized Superintendent Edward R. Lawson to prepare complete specifications on the re-organization as he feels it should be. He will itemize how many men he will need for each of the sub-departments under his control.

Within the past several months the Department has lost five men. Monday evening the superintendent was authorized to replace one of these, but the Board felt that before going ahead and hiring more men it would be better to have a complete reorganization.

Two men in the department are now under two weeks suspension, Superintendent Lawson having taken this action because of dissatisfaction with their work. One other man, the assistant engineer at the pumping station has been granted a leave of absence, but this was at his own request, as he is getting married.

Woman's Army Still At Work

New York, N.Y., May 10. In conjunction with the observance of the fifth anniversary of the Women's Army Corps on May 14, First Army recruiting officials at Governors Island, New York City have announced that many vacancies exist for former Wacs in the First Army Area.

The present effective strength of the Women's Army Corps is 9,540. These Wacs have volunteered for extended duty until June 1947, or for the duration of the War and six months. Many are triple volunteers, for there are still many who volunteered as members of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, re-volunteered for the Women's Army Corps, and again on signing for extended duty.

Of the present strength, approximately 2,000 women are assigned to 17 installations in the European Theater. Over 500 in Japan, a detachment of 150 is stationed in Italy, and 280 others are in Panama. There are a total of 2,570 assigned to the Army Air Forces.

In paying a well deserved tribute to the Women's Army Corps, Chief of Staff, General Dwight D. Eisenhower stated, "During the time I have had Wacs under my command they have met every test and task assigned them. I have seen them at work in Africa, Italy, England, France, and at Army installations throughout the European Theater. Their contribution in efficiency, skill, spirit, and determination are immeasurable. The Women's Army Corps has built for itself an impressive record of conduct and service an given the womanhood of America every right to be proud of its accomplishments."

Former Wacs can obtain complete information concerning the many opportunities and advantages, including interesting, attractive jobs in the Army today at any Army Recruiting Station.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN THINKS IT OVER

The Forgotten Man is beginning to wish he could forget what it cost him to be remembered.

The depression took away all that he had. He now has it back but he feels worse than when he could tell he was in a hole without studying charts.

He is better off by optical illusion and happier by figures he can't understand. He has been reconditioned, reconstructed, refinanced and revitalized, but he feels worse than ever. He is suffering from Reconfusion.

He has listened to so many economists, seen so many blueprints, harkened to so many fixers, prophets and medicine men and sat up so many nights with so many rescue squads that he has lost his capacity to think straight and sacrificed his instinct for knowing whether he is sick, well or medium.

The tragedy of the era is man's suspicion that the other fellow is trying to put something over on him. The "we're all one happy family" mood in any plant is a rarity. This is the day of the worker who sees a conspiracy on every side, and of the boss who sees a trick in every movement.

We are in an age of catch-as-catch-can philosophies, quick, detachable convictions and cooked-to-order ideologies. We live in a school of thinking which dodges facts and clasps to its bosom any idea that comes with built-in monkey wrenches.

The America which withstood the Indian attack, drove off the wolves and conquered a wilderness to build a great nation now wants ease and prosperity through pushbutton pressing. And with the necessity to push a button eliminated on weekends.

The American who blazed a trail over mountains, endured all hardships and won over the toughest handicaps now wants to sit down while traveling by escalator.

And he demands bigger escalators on Sundays and holidays.

TRUMAN IN HIS BOWLING ALLEY

When office cares are over
And state routine is done,
Our Harry seeks the alley
And seeks it on the run;
What happiness he finds there—
To sock, to smack, to fire—
To knock things helter-skelter
With no reactions dire!

How sweet to find the basement

By crucial day or night—
To pick up something heavy
And hurl with all his might!
To do a little smashing—
To sock with force immense—
To slam one down the middle—
And fear no consequence!

Some people are arguing that Henry should confine his speeches to New York's Madison Square garden. But they don't seem to realize that another circus had leased that building for the month.
